

WOMEN OF MYSTERY

Gardens, Antiques & Love—What else does a woman need?

Mayhem and Murder in the Garden

Rosemary Harris's debut novel, Pushing Up Daisies, is the first in the Dirty Business series of mysteries featuring amateur sleuth Paula Holliday. Rosemary is a member of the board of directors of Mystery Writers of America, New York Chapter, and an active member of Sisters in Crime and the Connecticut Master Gardeners Association. She and her husband split their time between New York City and Fairfield County, CT where Rosemary is a certified Master Gardener.

Join Rosemary as she mixes mulch and murder, confirming the old saying, "In the garden, beauty is just a byproduct... the real business is sex and death."

Killer Antiques

Jane K. Cleland's Antiques to Die For, the third Josie Prescott Antiques Mystery, has been called an Antiques Roadshow for mystery fans. Consigned to Death, an Independent Mystery Booksellers Association best-seller, was nominated for an Agatha, a David, and a Macavity Award for Best First Novel. Jane is the Chair of the Wolfe Pack's literary awards and is President of the Mystery Writers of America, New York Chapter. She and her husband live in New York City.

Join Jane as she discusses how antiques can lead to murder... and pit your antiques appraisal skills against those of the experts in fun, engaging challenges.

Deadly Romance

Hank Phillippi Ryan's first mystery, the best selling Prime Time, is an Agatha nominee for Best First Novel. Hank is currently on the air at Boston's NBC affiliate, where she's broken big stories for the past 22 years. Along with her 24 EMMYS, Hank has won dozens of other journalism honors. Hank is a member of board of directors of the New England Chapter of both the Sisters in Crime and the Mystery Writers of America, and is a member of Investigative Reporters and Editors. Hank and her husband live outside of Boston.

Join Hank as she delves into deadlines, deception, and desire—and reveals the inside scoop: romance can be deadly.
